THE HABEAS CORPUS

Hearing on Saturday Attracted a Large Crowd.

EVIDENCE NOT STRONG

Kachic and Watson Satisfied that they will be Vindicated of the Crime.

JUDGE ORVIS RESERVES DECISION

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock a habeas corpus hearing was held in the Court house before Judge Ellis L. Orvis in the case of Kachic and Watson accused of murdering John Kachic at Clarence on September 12th, 1906.

The court of Justice was crowded with an eager and anxious throng of people, a great many from Clarence and Snow Shoe, to see these two men and to hear the evidence the commonwealth would produce in order to hold these men for trial.

The prisoners were brought in by Sheriff Kline and Deputy Sheriff Reese, neither Kachic or Watson showed any signs of nervousness and sat through the entire hearing manifesting the greatest interest.

The first witness to be called was O. H. Osman an undertaker from Snow Shoe he said he knew John Kachic when he saw him, and that he and Andrew had some words at a festival held in the hall at Snow Shoe the Saturday night before John was killed. He said he was called to Clarence to bury the body of John Kachic on the 12th. Found the body in the middle of the track, head and one arm was cut off. One particular mark he noticed was a cut made by some instrument near the jugular vein, when preparing the body for burial, he used a knife to see how large the hole was in the neck, which was about 2 inches deep. Had a conversation with Andrew Kachic at the funeral in regards to John death and Andy said you don't think I would kill my cousin do you?

Upon cross examination the witness told of burning the deceased clothes about four weeks ago. Andrew helped to dig the grave for which he received a dozen bottles of beer.

Dr. J. L. Seibert next witness called stated that he assisted the county coroner in the post mortem examination, he said they found the headless body in a casket in a lodge room near Clarence. Head was in a separate receptacle in the casket, on right of the neck 3 inches above collar bone was found a stab wound made with a sharp cutting instrument which had severed the jugular vein, which would produce death in a few minutes, could not say whether incision had been made there before or after death.

Dr. Fisher called stated that he was the coroner of the county made an examination of the body found a wound made by a pointed knife or stiletto, such as would have caused death. Dr. Fisher was confident that the man had been murdered and that this wound in the neck was the cause of his death.

Dr. James Neff called says he saw John Kachic at 8 o'clock morning of the murder, the body looked as though it had been handled roughly. Did not see any knife wound on the neck. Did not see the wound Seibert and Fisher referred to. This was before he was placed in the hands of the undertaker.

Michael Scrapp called could not understand English very well. He said he was on his way to work the morning of the murder and when passing along the track he saw a body of a man lying about four feet from him and he says he was scared by-gosh and did not stop to look at him but ran like hell.

Glenn Viehdofer called said he knew John Kachic Harry Watson and Andrew Kachic, he was with all of them at the hotel the night before John was killed, Andrew and John had some words between them could not understand what they were saying but he knew there would be trouble and he told them they had better cut it out. Andrew said "I am a better man than you and I'll fix you." Andrew set up the drinks to everyone in the bar room but John Kachic. John started for home about 9 o'clock and Andrew followed a short time afterwards. Did not see either Kachic or Watson again that night. Andrew told Viehdofer that he and John had fall out and that they were not going to work together any more. John had a black eye that Andy had given him the Saturday night before at a festival. Tony Meek called and said John and Andy did not have a fight they only talked only to one another. John got a quart of whiskey and went home first. He said Kachic Watson and himself all went home together. Watson and Kachic told him to walk on that they wanted to talk about something, Andy told me he did not like John very well.

Martin Thompson called says he lived at the old Sugar Camp time of the death of John Kachic heard four men, recognized the voices of Tony Meek, Watson Andy and John Kachic. Heard some one say now you want to start trouble again. Next morning he heard of Kachic's death.

Sophia Buchalla a foreign woman was the next witness on the stand. Lived at the Sugar Camp, knew Andrew Kachic 13 years, was in the band hall night of the festival. John and Andy had a crap, Sunday night following Andrew told her that if John's brother Andy had not taken John away he would have killed him.

Andrew Kachic next witness called, I played in the band at the festival on Saturday night, John and Andy had words, I am a brother of John who was killed.

John Bauer one of the detectives called, present when Kachic and Watson were arrested, Watson sat with me in the car coming to Bellefonte. He told me that he and Andrew Kachic slept all night in the barn.

This ended all the testimony the commonwealth had ready and in a few words to the Judge asked that the case be tried in court.

Ex Judge John G. Love addressed the Judge in behalf of the defendants in which he stated the commonwealth had not the least bit of evidence against these men to show that they had anything to do with the death of John Kachic. In fact they did not show that the man was murdered and that it would be an injustice to hold these men on the testimony given. Judge Love never made a better address of this character before and it was listened to with the greatest of interest by the vast crowd in the court room. Judge Orvis reserved his decision until later.

Funeral of Grant Pifer.

The body of Mr. Grant Pifer who died at Wilkesburg, Monday morning, reached Bellefonte on the 1.23 p. m. train via Tyrone, accompanied by his wife and two sons together with several friends. The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock in St. John's Reformed church. The church was well filled with relatives and friends of the deceased. The members of the Masonic order attended in a body. The services were conducted by the Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt, who took as his text, Revelation 14:13.

Members of the "Masonic order" acted as pall bearers and after the burial service had been read by Rev. Mr. Schmidt the impressive committal service of the Masons followed. The large number of beautiful floral emblems attested to the high esteem in which Mr. Pifer was held by his friends and associated at his late home in Wilkesburg.

The casket bearers were the following gentlemen, John Kniesly, Dr. DeLann Stewart, Willis Bortoff, John J. Bower, Thomas Hazel and James Clark. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Wedding at State College.

On Wednesday evening Miss Sarah Markle of State College was united in marriage to Mr. Calvin Bruce Struble of the same town. The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lankert at Lemont in the presence of many guests.

Rev. Robert Sechrist said the words that bound these two young people in the holy bonds of wedlock.

Mr. and Mrs. Struble will make their home at State College where Mr. Struble is located in the butcher business. He is a young man held in the highest esteem among the business men of that town. Mrs. Struble is a very bright young lady and is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of making a happy home. May joy and peace always abide with them.

Death of Mrs. Savage.

On Sunday morning about one o'clock the angel of death entered the home of Mr. Bruce Savage at Coleville and called away the life of his young wife. The cause of Mrs. Savage's death was due to heart disease. She was about 22 years old and leaves a loving husband and little son to mourn her death. The funeral occurred on Tuesday afternoon.

EMOTIONAL INSANITY.

Will be Harry K. Thaw's Defence at the Trial.

SENTIMENT IS CHANGING

And Many Believe the Jury will Decide White's Shooting was Justified

SAYS HE WILL NOT BE ELECTROCUTED

New York, Jan. 22.—After seven months of waiting in the Tombs prison for trial Harry K. Thaw feels that he is about to be set right before the world. His relatives from Pittsburgh and England, who have been his comforters since that night of June 25 last, when he shot Architect Stanford White to death on the Madison Square "Garden roof", and the attorneys who have had his case in hands share this belief. A large proportion of the public that had made up its mind that there was only one possible end of the forthcoming trial, in the event that the young Pittsburgher was not adjudged insane and sent to Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane, has begun to hedge to a certain extent and there are not a few who assert their belief that Harry Thaw will carry his point with the jury that is accepted to pass upon the merits of his case.

This change of sentiment on the part of those who do not adhere to their previously conceived opinion is to be attributed to a statement made by one of the counsel. Ever since shortly after Thaw's arrest the lawyers retained silence as to the course they would pursue. When the case was first sifted it was announced that the defense could be nothing but insanity of the slayer of White. Thaw himself denounced this judgment of his counsel and dismissed the celebrated firm of Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonygne.

The theory of emotional insanity, which presupposes the possibility of a person perfectly rational becoming insane for a minute or the fraction of that unit of time during which he commits a heinous crime as a culmination of great stress of mind, produced by egotisms of perhaps only fancied wrong, and then a normal mental condition is resumed, was advanced and immediately dismissed as preposterous.

Following that came the theory of justification under what is termed the "unwritten law." This list was fastened upon by the public, the journalistic scientists and some attorneys as the only plausible defense for the killing of White. Though none confirmed it, the attorneys for and friends of Thaw permitted the impression to go forth that they would depend on it to save the life of the young Pittsburgher. Its untenability was unchallenged except by the few who had followed criminal practice in New York and it was generally believed Thaw would stand upon it until one of his attorneys in a moment of abstraction, revealed enough to show his hand.

New York, January 21st.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw charged with the murder of Stanford White, was today postponed until Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The defendant was up bright and early this morning anxious for his trip across the bridge from the Tombs prison to the court room. His wife arrived at the prison too late to see him.

All persons other than the 200 men from among whom the jury of twelve is to be selected, were excluded from the court room. Even the newspaper men, including correspondents from many of the larger cities of this country, London and Paris, were held outside the court room during the brief proceedings.

The large crowd which had gathered in the corridors and at the criminal courts building, hoping to catch a glimpse of Thaw or some of the others connected with his case, was disappointed.

The prisoner appeared happy and confident and walked with springy step.

It was reported today that Howard Neebit, brother of Mrs. Harry K. Thaw, has arrived in this city and that he will visit District Attorney Jerome's office and offer to testify as a witness for the prosecution and in defense of the reputation of Stanford White, who was his benefactor.

Atherton to Manage Johnstown.

Concerning the management of next season's management for the Johnstown Tri-State team, the Johnstown Democrat says the following: Charley Atherton will be manager of the Johnstown team in the Tri-State league next season. There has been no official announcement of this. In fact, it has never been authoritatively announced that a manager has been elected. Nevertheless it has been rumored for some time past that such is the case and from sources, the authority of which cannot be questioned it has been learned that Atherton is the man who has been selected to guide the destinies of the Joyful Johnnies in the season of 1907. It is understood that his selection was well regarded among the directors of the local association, the majority of whom voted for him. Official news of the team for next season will be made public in the near future, but in the meantime it looks like a sure thing that Atherton will hold the reins.

Homan—Hoy.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at high noon on Wednesday at the home of Joseph Hoy, when his daughter, Miss Hannah May Hoy, and Charles Homan, were joined in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ralph H. Bergstrom, pastor of the Pine Grove Mills Lutheran church, in the presence of the immediate families. Miss Emma Hoy was maid of honor, and John Homan was best man.

Mrs. Homan is an accomplished and refined young lady and is very popular among the younger set at State College. Her wedding came as a pleasant surprise to her many friends, and is the happy culmination of a courtship begun in childhood.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Homan, and is well known as a promising young man. After a short honeymoon he will assist his father, temporarily, at his home in Pine Grove Mills.

Friday evening at the home of the brides parents on East High street, Mr. Charles S. Lose and Miss Nellie E. Markle were married by the Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt. THE REAPER DEATH

Entered Many Homes in Bellefonte and in the County

MANY CHAIRS VACANT

Loved Ones Called to That Great Beyond Whence no Traveler Returned

WILLIAM H. MILLER AND OTHERS

"In the midst of life we are in death" and so it was in the passing away of one of Centre county's most highly respected citizens.

William Henry Miller who was born, raised and lived all his life in Spring Township passed into that "Great Beyond" whence no traveler returned Wednesday a little before 5 o'clock. His life has been one of usefulness and kindness, and when any of his neighbors were ill or in trouble Mr. Miller in a warm healthy spirit would always be there to help and aid them, and so his whole life was spent in living as near that of a Christian as was required.

On Monday evening while sitting in his store conversing with some of his friends he had a stroke of paralysis, he was carefully carried home and put in bed. About midnight he received a second stroke and from that time until his death this morning he never regained consciousness.

In the death of Mr. Miller, Spring township loses one of its most substantial citizens, he was always foremost in every movement for the betterment of improvement of the little village of Axe Mann.

For the past 10 years he has been their post master and every duty imposed upon him while holding that position was executed in a careful honest way.

He was a member of the St. John's Reformed church of Bellefonte and when in health could always be seen in that house of God during worship.

In 1868 he became a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and was also a charter member of the Rebecca Degree.

If he had lived until April he would have reached his 63rd year in life.

The funeral services will be held at his late home at Axe Mann on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Ambrose Schmidt will officiate. Interment will be made in the Union cemetery in Bellefonte.

He leaves to mourn his death a loving wife and two daughters. Mrs. Anna Garis of Axe Mann, wife of the late Sergeant Charles Garis who died at Chickamauga Ga. during the Spanish-American war, and Mrs. Charles Wetzel of Spring township.

$50,000 Fire for Altoona

Altoona was the scene of a fire Monday morning which for a time threatened the business section of town and which did considerable damage before it was brought under control. The fact that it was hard to subdue was caused by the fact that it was almost an impossibility at first to locate the flames by reason of the dense smoke. Fortunately the night was calm and by no means cold, and this combination was a great aid to the firemen.

The scene of the fire was the building owned by C. E. and A. R. Wolf, situated on Eleventh avenue between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, No. 1128 was occupied by Whitman & Artman, millinery and ladies' cloaks, etc.; by A. Notopoulos, the Greek, who conducted a shoe shine parlor, and by M. A. Webster, tailor, who was located on the second floor, the other two business places being on the first floor. Here the loss was the greatest. The other building, No. 1126, is occupied by A. J. Strauss, who conducts a pool room on the second floor, a skating rink on the third and bowling alley in the basement. On the first floor is located Blaw's store and the office of the Postal Telegraph company. Mr. Strauss also used the third floor of building No. 1128 as a shop.

Death of Mrs. Rocky.

Mrs. Mary Rocky, widow of the late Samuel Rocky, a veteran of the Civil war died Saturday at the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. Joseph Workman at Hecla Park.

She was 87 years, 3 months and 18 days old. Funeral Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Zion cemetery.

HORRIBLE DEATH IN LIQUOR VAT.

Deceased is Father of Young Man Formerly of Bellefonte.

The deceased whose horrible death is recorded below is the father of William Beck a young man who worked at one time at the Lingle foundry as a moulder. He is married to Sarah Martin a former Bellefonte lady. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Beck now in town will feel sorry to hear of this sad death.

John S. Beck, well known resident of the Fourth ward, whose home is at the corner of Bald Eagle and West Penn streets met with a shocking accident on Friday afternoon at Kistler's tannery, which resulted in his death in the Beck Haven hospital this morning at 3:30.

Mr. Beck was employed in the tannery house and while walking on a plank slipped and fell into one of the vats filled with liquor which is used in curing the hides. The liquor was heated to a scalding temperature by a system of steam pipes. The unfortunate man was pulled out as quickly as possible by fellow workmen, but he was frightfully scalded on the limbs and body as far as his waist, that the skin came off in places when his clothing was removed.

He was taken to the hospital in haste and everything known to medical science was done by the physicians and nurses to ease his sufferings and to save his life, but he gradually grew weaker, and died at the time stated. He was conscious until the end.

John Beck was an industrious, honest citizen, a kind father and a good husband, and his fate is deplored by the people of this city. He was employed at Kistler's tannery for a long term of years and performed his duties faithfully and well.

Deceased was 56 years and is survived by his heart-broken wife and the following children: Henry, Charles, Robert, Annie and Lizzie at home. William, of Bellwood. He also has one brother, Henry, of Loganton, and two sisters, Mrs. David Shaffer, of this city, and Mrs. Emanuel Bressler of Tylersville.

Funeral services will be conducted at the house on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be charge of Great Island lodge, No. 330, I. O. O. F., of which deceased was a member.

It is somewhat of a coincidence that just 26 years ago Mr. Beck's father was severely burned about the head and face while endeavoring to save his home at Mackeville from destruction. However, after weeks, and in fact, months of suffering, he finally recovered.

Married at the Parsonage.

On Thursday evening Mr. Curtin C. Taylor led Miss Grace Lillian Strunk to the marriage altar and there made her his wife.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the St. John's Catholic parsonage by Rev. Patrick McArdle.

Miss Carrie Cole was the bridesmaid while Mr. Charley Taylor, a brother of the groom was best man. After the words had been said that united this happy young couple for life, they were taken to the Strunk home west of Bellefonte where a sumptuous wedding supper was served. Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor gathered in to wish them happiness and offer their congratulations. The bride is a young lady who thoroughly understands how a home should be kept and we know will make a faithful helpmate through life.

Mr. Taylor is very well known in Bellefonte and has hosts of friends. He holds a position at the present time with the Central Railroad of Pa.

We wish them happiness and joy through life.

Good Returns.

T. M. Gramley, of Spring Mills sent the following account of his success with hens: January 1st, 1906, I selected thirty hens and two cockerels from my thoroughbred barred Plymouth Rocks, and kept an accurate daily account of their laying during the year. January 1, 1907, I summoned up the year's work of these hens and found that they laid during the year a total of 4007 eggs or 334 dozen, which at the ruling prices at Spring Mills at times of laying were worth $65.78 or $2.10 per hen. This was an average of 134 eggs per hen. I also kept accurate account of expenses consumed, as well as young chickens raised, and find that they gave me a profit of 197 per cent on my investment.

I now started January 1st 1907, with eighty-two and eight cockerels, selected from these barred Plymouth Rocks (a nice flock of birds as you can find in Centre county) and expect to beat the above record during 1907.

It is expected the conference will agree on a resolution that will be satisfactory to a majority of both branches of the Legislature.

A TWO-MINUTE SESSION.
The Senate held a session of two minutes this morning, and then adjourned until 9 o'clock Monday night. The only business was the formal announcement of the appointment of Captain E. L. Groff, of Harrisburg, as assistant Senate librarian.

Local Sabbath Observance Report.

After a successful beginning, your committee is suddenly and unexpectedly blocked by a dairyman who, at the outset, encouraged us to go forward in a movement for the relief of Sunday milk delivery in Bellefonte. We have the signatures of all his patrons applied to, save one, consenting to a delivery on Saturday evening a sufficient supply for the Sabbath day. Several letters written to him and no word of explanation for non-compliance on his part is received from him. Other dairymen have expressed their willingness to accept a united agreement. At present no forward move can be made by your committee for the furtherance of local Sabbath observance in our city and vicinity. One objector, not a dairyman, but engaged in local Sunday delivery, expressed the truth when he said "the doing of business has changed, and we have to conform." Verily so, but natural law with civil enactment and God's commands have not changed. Obligation to obedience is incumbent as ever. Most sincerely desiring the highest prosperity of all our people in town and its vicinity, your committee is fully convinced by what is Divinely and clearly revealed that there can be nothing gained worth having, but certain irretrievable loss by the transgression of God's Holy Laws. I would rather be beaten in the right than to succeed in the wrong. It goes without saying that, sure as death, there is danger somewhere that can be averted only by righteous action in obedience to the sacred commandments "given by inspiration of God."

Tuesday the B. M. A. voted unanimously to have this published in all our local papers.

R. CRITTENDEN,

Chairman of the Local Sabbath Observance Committee, by appointment of the Bellefonte Ministerial Association.

Wild-Cats Kill a Deer.

About ten days ago, while hunting bear near the "Sand Knobs," between the third and fourth mountain, south of Pine Grove Mills, Harry Miller came upon the carcass of a big four-prong buck deer which had been killed by wild-cats, or catamounts, as the animals are known among hunters. The tracks of the animals in the snow around the dead deer indicated that three of the animals participated in the kill; and the next day Mr. Miller took several heavy traps and set them around the carcass, hoping to catch the animals, but up to this time he has failed to succeed, as they evidently took the hint. Mr. Miller secured the horns of the buck and now has them on exhibition at the home of Andy Lytle at the College.

It is not generally known, but it is an actual fact, that these animals do kill deer, and the writer had positive evidence of it some years ago when he, in company with another hunter, came upon a deer trail sprinkled with blood and hair in the snow; and, following it came upon the carcass of a spike buck which had been killed by a wild-cat.

Philip D. Foster of the College, hearing of the tragic end of the deer as described by Mr. Miller, immediately wrote to Secretary Kalbfus, of the Game Commission, appealing to him to use influence in direction of having an act passed by the present legislature, restoring the scalp duty on predatory animals, and he has received a reply in which Mr. Kalbfus pledges his influence in that direction.

We hope such an act may pass, and include in its provisions wild-cats, foxes, minks, weasels and pole-cats, with the provision that the premiums be paid by the State, as it is unfair to impose the burden on a few counties.

Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co.

The annual meeting of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Centre county was held in its room in Petriken Hall, on Monday last, to close up its business of the past year. Over half a million dollars in risks was taken in 1906. The total amount of insurance in force, is close on to two and a half million dollars. There were no losses to adjust at this meeting.

The annual statement shows a surplus of over $3000. No assessments for losses were made within the past five years, showing the Company continues in its accustomed healthy condition owing to the efficiency and studied economy on the part of its officers and directors.

At the annual election held the following board of directors was unanimously chosen for the ensuing year: J. G. Goheen, Frank McFarlane, J. B. Strohm, Frank Fisher, Robert Reed, W. Fred Reynolds, H. E. Duck, G. B. Haines, Fred Kuntz, Z. D. Thomas, J. R. Brungart, George Mitchell.

Bill to Restrict Weddings.

The Allegheny County Medical Society will stand sponsor for a bill to be introduced in the Legislature to prevent indiscriminate marriages. Dr. Frederic A. Rhodes, a prominent member of the society, is preparing the bill. The society claims that more trouble comes in this world on account of indiscriminate marriages than from any other source. The bill will prevent the marriage of all persons who suffer from disease which may be communicated to their children.

BURIED IN TYRONE ON MONDAY.

Guy A. Cox, employed in the Juniata shops, was electrocuted shortly before 2 o'clock Friday afternoon by coming in contact with a live wire in the machine shop. The current passed through his body and death was instantaneous.

The young man was employed as an electrician for the Pennsylvania Railroad company and was in the performance of his duties when he met his death. He was working on the top of a boiler in the machine shop adjusting some wires when he accidentally caught hold of a live wire. The current passed through his body and hurled him from the boiler to the floor beneath a distance of four feet. A physician was summoned but death was instantaneous.

He was born in Milesburg, Dec. 16, 1885, and had resided in Altoona for the past two years. Six months ago he was transferred to the electrical department and had only worked as an electrician during that time. He boarded at the home of Mrs. McCann in Juniata. His mother, Mrs. Bertha Cox, and two sisters survive: Louise and Grendoline. He was a member of the Juniata Lutheran church and of the Juniata Pennsylvania Railroad Young Men's Christian association. Should be Arrested.

Some one is going to get hurt and who ever he is no one will be to blame but himself. During the early fall an individual was seen near the old skating rink at Ardell's planning mill dressed in black and whenever some of the ladies would be going home at a late hour this party would follow them. This fellow that was doing this cowardly work last fall is known and lives out in that direction.

Last night other people saw a party out on Linn street and started to follow when an alarm was given and the coward "skidoed," now this person is suspected and if his pranks are repeated he is going to get hurt. Some parties are out there just to get a good crack at him, and if the hospital don't have another patient we will be badly mistaken.

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures. Send for and read the little book of extracts, treating of the properties and uses of the several medicinal roots that enter into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and learn why this medicine has such a wide range of application in the cure of diseases. It is sent free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Discovery" contains no alcohol or harmful, habit-forming drug. Ingredients all printed on each bottle wrapper in plain English.

Sick people, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy.

Col. Taylor's Staff.

Last week the Republican announced the election of H. S. Taylor, of Bellefonte, to the position of colonel of the Fifth regiment, N. G. P., and George W. Crede, of Blairsville, as lieutenant colonel, as well as a few of Col. Taylor's appointments on his staff. Col. It will be noticed that Bellefonte has been especially favored, which is only natural and right that it should be. In the non-commissioned list appear the names of Curtin and Beaver, and there is no doubt but what both these young gentlemen will prove themselves as worthy as did their illustrious ancestors. Anent the bugle corps of sixteen men and the leader, which will be located in Milesburg, chief bugler Toner A. Hugg informs us that he already has almost one hundred applications for the sixteen places to fill. He expects to make his selections in a few days.

Harris Presented Gift.

John T. Harris, for a number of years manager of the Pennsylvania Telephone company's exchange in this city, retired Tuesday from the capacity, and on Monday assumes the duties of assistant district traffic manager, with headquarters in Harrisburg. As a token of the great esteem in which he was held by those who served with him in the exchange, Tuesday evening presented Mr. Harris with a beautiful loving cup. It is of solid silver with an ebony base and inscribed as follows:

"Presented to John Toner Harris by employees of the Altoona, Hollidaysburg and Tyrone exchanges of the Pennsylvania Telephone company in loving remembrance and as a mark of their esteem. Jan. 15th 1907."

The presentation was made in the exchange office, by B. J. Gill, wire chief, in a neat and appropriate speech. Mr. Harris was deeply affected by this display of goodwill, and his surprise was complete, but he responded in grateful terms of appreciation of the beautiful remembrance.

Mr. Harris has been exceedingly popular with the employees of the exchange, as he has been with all those with whom he had business relations. The regret that he felt by the employees is reflected among a large circle of admirers.

Mr. Elwood Mateer, who has been appointed to succeed Mr. Harris, Wednesday assumed charge of the exchange. Mr. Mateer has had considerable experience in exchange work, and his efficiency and faithful service were the qualifications that secured for him the substantial promotion.

Mr. W. F. Boeb, auditor of the Pennsylvania Telephone company, went over the accounts of the local exchange, and Division Superintendent K. C. Raup completed the transfer to Mr. Mateer.

Danced For Dollars Until Nearly Dead

According to Slavic custom every young man, dating with the bride contributes a silver to the purpose. After the wedding the bride was kept dancing almost constantly until the next night, when she fell in a faint.

TO READERS OF THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL:

Did you read the article published by The Ladies' Home Journal in May 1904, attacking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Have you seen the statement more recently made by Mr. Bok, the Editor of that magazine that his company "has not paid a single penny to Dr. R. V. Pierce's concern * * * in settlement of any suit"? We wish you to know the truth. The facts are these:

Four days after the article in May 1904, appeared, Dr. Pierce's company sued The Ladies' Home Journal publishers for libel. The trial was had in April last. Dr. Pierce proved that the attack made by The Ladies' Home Journal was false. He proved that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription does not, and never did contain either alcohol or any of the injurious drugs which The Ladies' Home Journal falsely stated it did contain. This was so conclusively shown that the attorneys for The Ladies' Home Journal were forced to admit it. The jury rendered a verdict against The Ladies' Home Journal in favor of Dr. Pierce's company for $16,000.00. This was a complete vindication of Doctor Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription." It judicially established that the libel was wholly false, and without any justification.

Dr. Pierce, however, believed that his company is justly entitled to a verdict for a much larger sum. Through his attorneys he has, therefore, applied to the court for a new trial of the case. For this reason, and for this reason alone, has The Ladies' Home Journal not yet paid "a single penny to Dr. R. V. Pierce's concern." Dr. Pierce has simply chosen not to collect the judgment until the motion for a new trial has been decided.

In the light of these facts does not this boastful statement that it "has not paid a single penny to Dr. R. V. Pierce's concern" look like a cheap and common bluff, a half truth intended to mislead you?

During the trial of the libel suit against the above mentioned publishers, Dr. Lee H. Smith, Vice-President of the World's Dispensary Medical Association, stated under oath that the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription were wholly extracted from the following native roots: Golden Seal, Blue Cohosh, Lady's Slipper Black Cohosh and Unicorn by means of pure glycerine of proper strength. He was asked how he knew, as a physician and experienced medical man, that the "Favorite Prescription" was a cure for the diseases peculiar to women, such as "female weakness," "white discharge," "catarrhal drainage," "prolapse," "irregular, irregular and painful periods," and other diseases of the womanly organs, and he stated that he knew such was the fact because of his professional experience and the many thousands of women whose ills, to his personal knowledge, had been cured by this "Prescription."

This experience of Dr. Smith was corroborated by the standard Medical Authorities, of the several schools of practice, endorsing the various ingredients in the strongest terms. Dr. Smith being asked to name some of these authorities as to the curative value of the above roots read from the standard works, such as the United States Dispensary; The American Dispensary; Organic Medicines, by Grover C. M. D.; Materia Medica, by Professor Finley Ellingwood of the Bennett Medical College, Chicago; "New Remedies," by Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Chicago; Text-Book of Therapeutics, by Dr. Robert A. Hare, Prof. in Univ. of Penna; Laurence Johnson, M. D., Prof. in University of New York; Prof. John King, Author of "Woman and Her Diseases"; Professor John M. Scudder, M. D., Author of a treatise on "The Diseases of Women"; Horatio C. Wood, M. D., Author of "Therapeutics"; Roberts Bartholow, A. M., M. D., Professor of Materia Medica, Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia.

All these recognized and standard authorities praise, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient which enters into the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments. In fact the "Favorite Prescription" stands alone as being the only medicine for woman's special ailments which has any such professional endorsement of its several ingredients which fact is generally recognized as entitled to much more weight than any amount of lay, or non-professional testimonials. The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone as the only non-secret, medicine for woman's ailments. Its manufacturers are not afraid to publish its ingredients, as they do, broadcast—thus courting the fullest scrutiny.

The "Favorite Prescription" has been on trial in court and came out fully vindicated as containing no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

What other medicine for women could stand such a test?

No invalid women can afford to accept a secret nostrum of unknown composition for this tried and proven remedy of known composition. Leading physicians often prescribe it because they know exactly what it is made of and that the ingredients of which it is composed are the very best known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and delicate ailments.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not advertised as a "Cure All" but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a superior and most positive remedy for one class of diseases only—those easily recognized weaknesses, derangements, irregularities and painful disorders peculiar to women. It is a powerful, gently acting, invigorating, tonic and strengthening nerve. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down,—whether it be from too frequent bearing of children or from much worry, care, or over exertion of any kind, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most efficient in building up the strength, regulating all the womanly functions, banishing pain and bringing about a regular and healthy, vigorous condition of the whole female system.

2 BRICK COURT.

Temple Chambers in Which Oliver Goldsmith Amused Himself.

Few buildings link the London of the present day with so many of the literary characters of the London of the past as does the house at 2 Brick court, Middle Temple. The dominant memory which clings around it is that perpetuated by a handsome tablet on its front elevation bearing the words:

In these chambers died
Oliver Goldsmith

Goldsmith's, however, was seldom a lonely figure, and he gathered around him at Brick court all the wit of the metropolis of his day. In 1765, on the strength of the success of "The Good Natured Man" and the fact that he was making some £500 a year, "Goldie" expended £400 on chambers "up two pair right" and fitted them with showy carpets, gilt mirrors and furniture extravagantly upholstered in blue velvet. Thus equipped, he embarked on a course of expenditure in which fine clothes for himself, grand dinners to a literary coterie and pretty trifles for venal beauties all bore costly parts. Johnson, Dr. Arne, Percy Reynolds, Francis and Bickerstaff were among the frequent visitors at 2 Brick court, but their arrival was not the cause of so much concern to Goldsmith's coten-ants as that of some other of the poet's guests. It was the little supper parties to Goldsmith's young friends of both sexes that drew from the studious Blackstone, hard at work on his famous "Commentaries" in the rooms below "Goldie's," bitter protests against the racket of his "reveling neighbor."

Both "The Traveler" and "The Vicar of Wakefield" were published soon after Goldsmith moved into Brick court, but the income they brought him was insufficient to withstand the drain made on his resources by his extravagance, his generosity and his taste for gambling. Owing £2,000, unable to obtain further advances from his booksellers and seeing no way out of his embarrassments, Goldsmith broke down in spirits and health. He had to leave those windows from which he used to watch the rooks in the grove, which once stood where now is Elm court, and, as he wrote, "often amused myself with observing their plan of policy." Goldsmith returned thither, nevertheless, to die, and though he was carried to his last resting place through rows of weeping women the benches of the Temple appear to have valued him so little that the very place of his burial became forgotten. For that neglect the tablet came as tardy but welcome reparation.—London Tribune.

SUGAR MAKING.

The Hindoos Probably Learned the Art From the Chinese.

The Chinese, who invented almost everything before anybody else heard of it, claim to be the original discoverers of the process of sugar making, and it is said that sugar was used in China as long ago as 3,000 years. This is misty, but the fact is well established that it was manufactured in China under the Tsin dynasty 200 years at least before the Christian era began.

India has put forward a claim for priority of invention, but the probability is that the Hindoos learned the art of sugar making from the Chinese and that through them the knowledge finally spread to the western nations. Nearchus, when sent by Alexander on an exploring voyage on the Indus, brought back reports of "honey" which was made by the Asiatics from cane without the help of bees.

At this time neither the Greeks nor the Jews nor the Babylonians had any knowledge of sugar, but later the art of making the artificial "honey" became known and practiced, though its progress and development were exceedingly slow. It was prescribed as a medicine by Galen in A. D. 150, and up to the seventeenth century it had become nothing more than a costly luxury, to be used only on special occasions. Even as late as the beginning of the eighteenth century the annual consumption of sugar in Great Britain had reached only 20,000,000 pounds, whereas it is now more than 2,000,000,000.

Novel Bank For Tom Johnson.

Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, O., will inaugurate a novel system in banking methods in the conduct of his new bank, the Depositors' Savings and Trust company, says the Chicago Tribune. "The bank," said City Clerk Witt recently, "is to issue an entirely new kind of money, a sort of 'phony' money, but good, just as good as any other kind of currency. It will be in the form of a certificate of deposit that will be used as currency. For instance, if I wanted to send some friend a dollar I would go to the bank, deposit a dollar and in return would receive a certificate. On this certificate will be printed a picture of Mayor Johnson."

"Hand Rug" Best Term For New Muff. Cousins to fur rugs in shape, though not as large, were a couple of muffs that attracted attention in the St. Regis hotel in New York the other afternoon, says the New York Press. They were made of the whole skin of the animal, lined perfectly flat and otherwise unmanipulated. Large pockets had been prepared in the lining in such a way that when the hands were slipped into these the skin could be rolled around the hands, giving somewhat the usual appearance of a muff. When not in use the hand rug, as it might be called, hung almost as flat and formless as a stretch mitt.

STUDENT'S PRANK.

Actress Sang "Won't Somebody Kiss Me?" and He Did.

Two hundred Bates college students attended the theater in Lewiston, Me., the other night clad in pajamas, says a special from Lewiston to the New York World. It was in celebration of the winning of the state football championship.

Seats were reserved for the boys, who took the college band.

Captain Schumacher, the six foot right tackle of the team, in answer to Actress Clara Turner's song, "Won't Somebody Give Me a Kiss?" jumped to the stage and boldly accepted the invitation before she realized what was going on.

Schumacher finished the chorus with her, while the audience encored again and again.

Philosophers and Traffic.

Many a philosopher in the course of his star gazing has fallen into a ditch and worse. The fate of Professor Curie, the discoverer of radium, who, intent upon its possibilities, fell under the wheel of a wagon and was crushed to death, might be paralleled by several instances of the kind from lives of philosophers, notably that of Archimedes of Syracuse, who was so concentrated on a mathematical problem when the Roman besiegers at last burst into that city that he fell under their swords in spite of his impatience. "Noli turbare circulos meos," Stepanak, too, the Russian refugee, was so engrossed with the study of nihilist questions in the course of a walk in a London suburb that he was run over and killed by a train at a level crossing.—London Chronicle.

Amy Robsart.

On a Sunday in September, 1590, Lady Robert Dudley, better known under her maiden name of Amy Robsart, being in good health, sent to a fair all the people of Connor Hall, near Oxford, where she was residing, except one friend. On their return she was lying dead at the foot of the stairs. Dudley courted inquiry. The inquest found that she died by accident, and she was splendidly buried in St. Mary's, Oxford. The Spanish ambassador wrote that Elizabeth had told him a few days before that Amy was likely to die soon, but he may well have had a motive for a false statement. It is Sir Walter Scott's greatest crime that he misdates Amy Robsart's death by some fifteen years.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Gay Crowd at the Rink.

Wednesday evening the Coleville band was at the skating rink and played from 7 to 10 o'clock. The music was all that could be desired, it seemed to put life and spirit into the young folks as they went spinning over the floor. Fully 300 people were present. "The Jew Peddler" was there in all his glory and is nearly as expert at skating as he is in his detective work.

Mrs. Jack Decker won the ladies prize which was a set of bread and butter dishes, while Mr. Harry Flack carried off the honor on the gentlemen's side. He received a box of Continental cigars.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

PLANS FOR OLD MAIDS.

Similar Distinctions in the Old Bachelors' Meeting House.

Around three sides, about on a level with the pulpit, in the old meeting house at Hatfield, Mass., extended the galleries, reached by staircases on the northeast and southeast corners, where, in the front seats, sat the singers, trebles on the north and basses on the south and counters and tenors on the east. The next two rows of seats were occupied by children, girls in the north and boys in the south, and frolicsome youngsters they were, if we may judge by the frequency with which the town was obliged to renew the brass tips to the staves of the titling men, three of whom were always on duty to keep the youth from disorder.

Behind the children and still higher in square pews against the wall sat the young men and maidens, the latter on the north and the former on the south. One gallery pew was reserved for colored men and one for colored women, and, queerest of all, a high square pew over the north stairway was assigned to the old maids and a similar pew over the south stairs to old bachelors. Just how many years these two classes had to number before they were promoted from the lower seats in the synagogue the records do not state, but that they sat in those exalted seats Samuel Dwight Partridge, to whom we are indebted for the description of the old meeting house, assures us is beyond question. The square pews on the floor were assigned to householders, according to wealth and social position.—Springfield Republican.

Why You Should Let the Photographer Do the Posing.

"I always hate to have my picture taken, because I have such a horrid long neck," said the woman petulantly as she entered the photographer's gallery.

He smiled sympathetically. "Wait till you see the picture I take," he replied. "You won't know your own neck, so to speak. No, it isn't in my reckoning, but I always pose a long-necked subject lower than the camera, and the neck shortens up. That's only one of the tricks of the trade. The chatchet-faced man I pose looking straight into the camera in a full light. His face seems to broaden and become more fleshy in this pose. The person with a fat, round face, I place so that soft shadows veil either side of the face, which has a tendency to make the features more clear cut and handsome.

"I often have subjects with crooked noses. Now, a crooked nose should be frankly attacked—that is, the camera should be pointed directly at the crook, which reduces it. If I took it from the side the deformity would be exaggerated a hundredfold.

"The homeliest persons need not fear having their pictures taken if they will put themselves wholly in the photographer's hands and pose just as they are instructed to."—New York Press.

Lonely Man in a Crowd.

"Once in a great while," remarked the old New Yorker, "I have been caught out on Broadway in the theater district just as the women and girls were coming out from the matinee performances. In spite of the fact that there are always a great many men in this crowd the proportion of femininity is overwhelming, and I've been puzzled to find a satisfactory reason for my sense of confusion and embarrassment. But now I know just how I feel and why I have the emotions that always beset me so keenly there at such a time. I am simply suffering in the way a man always does who goes to an afternoon tea and finds himself the only one of his kind who has appeared on the scene."—New York Press.

Cause of His Joy.

"What are you looking so happy over, old man?"

MAKING OLD GLORY.

The Way Flags Are Turned Out With Modern Machinery.

By the aid of modern machinery only an hour is required for the manufacture of a silk or wool bunting American flag 6 by 10 feet in size. This task includes fourteen different operations and twenty years ago required a day and a half to accomplish. The last decade has witnessed the introduction of splicing and cutting machines as well as improved sewing machines. These have revolutionized the flag making industry.

The first step in making a flag, says the New York Sun, is to cut the stripes from huge rolls of red or white silk or wool bunting. Machinery accomplishes most of this, although some operatives equipped with huge shears are still employed. The stripes are given over to the machine operatives, by whom they are sewed together with lightninglike rapidity. The lock stitch is used and the thread fed from spools, each of which holds 24,000 yards.

The strips sewed together, the flag is ready to receive the union. The union is the blue field at the left upper corner of the flag bearing the forty-six stars, a star for every state, although most of the flags seen for some months will show only forty-five stars.

Stars of wool bunting flags are of muslin, although the union itself is of the same material as the body of the flag. A star is always half the width of a stripe of the flag it adorns.

Muslin stars are cut out by machinery at the rate of 3,000 an hour. A star is five pointed, each being precisely like its fellow. As fast as the stars are cut out they are passed to girls who, standing at long tables, arrange them on the unions. Then they are basted in place by hand and turned over to the machine operatives.

Placing the union in position follows, two unions being required for each flag, one on either side. Stripes and union joined, the finishers take the flag in hand. Strong canvas bands are sewed across the headings, the bands having grommets, or eyelets, in the corners. In the case of large flags for staffs the halliards run through these grommets.

Although every year more than 4,000,000 American flags are made in the fashion described, they form only a small proportion of the total number manufactured. Millions of printed flags come into existence every year, and their number is constantly increasing.

Blaine and An Appropriation.

When James G. Blaine was speaker of the house he cleverly got through a resolution appropriating $12,000 to the needy widowed daughter of President Zachary Taylor. This lady got as far as Washington on her way to Paris to see a sick daughter and, being destitute of money, appealed to her only friend at the capital, General Sherman. His purse was always open to the distressed, but he had not funds at all adequate to relieve her necessities. In this emergency he thought of Blaine. The man from Maine entered into the spirit of the occasion as soon as he heard General Sherman's statement. He called another to the chair and made a five minutes' speech that fairly electrified the house, which passed the resolution Blaine had penned only a moment before. He took the resolution in person to the senate, where it was also immediately passed, had the president to sign it the next day, and on the following day the beneficiary got the money. General Sherman always insisted that Blaine would have made the grandest actor that ever lived and in adapting his career to politics he robbed the stage of a born star.

Horses and Furs.

"Never ship horses to New York in the fall or winter if you want to make a good sale," was the advice that was handed out to a western man who had a number of horses that he wished to dispose of at the Horse Exchange. "They'll make a better showing in the spring or summer," explained a trader on the exchange, "and impress the prospective trader with a sense of safety. It is more difficult to break in a western horse in New York ways in the winter than the summer. It really doesn't take him long to become used to the crowds and noises of the city at any time. The thing that throws him into panic is the sight of fur. In his mind furs are associated with some enemy or tormentor of the animal kingdom, and the sight and smell of fur garments arouse former fears. Some horses never do get over this weakness, and many dealers can vouch for cases in which horses that are otherwise perfectly satisfactory bring complaint from the purchaser on account of their dislike of furs."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Not One Cent For Tribute.

The copper piece with the legend, "Millions for defense, not one cent for tribute," is not a coin at all, but a medal commemorating our troubles with France during the Napoleonic wars. Resenting our Jay treaty with Great Britain, made while George Washington was president, and angry because we would not take sides in those wars, France, in 1797, began to attack our merchant ships, and we came very near becoming involved in war with her. We sent a commission over to try to arrange the trouble, and the French prime minister, Talleyrand, gave them to understand we could arrange it only by paying a bribe or making a loan to the French government. To this it was said that Charles Cotesworth Pinckney of South Carolina, a member of our commission, replied in the words noted on the medal. This he denied, however, his reply being simply, "No, no, no; not one sennep."—St. Louis Republic.

PLENTY OF CHALK.

A Block That Was Once as Large as the Continent of Europe.

The small piece of chalk which is in constant use in the schoolroom, the lecture room, the billiard room and the workshop has a strange history, the unravelling of which through all its complexities is one of the most difficult problems with which the science of the present day is called upon to deal. This piece is in reality a chip of an immense block of chalk that once filled an area the size of the continent of Europe and of which even yet several gigantic fragments remain, each hundreds of square miles in extent. These patches are scattered over the region lying between Ireland on the west and China on the east and extend in the other direction from Sweden in the north to Portugal in the south.

In the British isles the chalk is found in greatest perfection and continuity in the east and southeast of England. A sheet of chalk more than a thousand feet in thickness underlies all that portion of England which is situated to the southeast of a line crossing the island diagonally from the North sea at Flamborough head to the coast on the English channel in Dorset. This enormous sheet of chalk is tilted up slightly on the west, and its depressed eastern portions that dip toward the waters of the North sea are usually buried from sight by means of overlying sands and clays. Where the edges of the chalk floor come upon the sea the cliff scenery is strikingly grand and beautiful. Any one who has once seen the magnificent rocks of Flamborough and Beachy head, the jagged stacks of the Needles or the dizzy mass of Shakespeare's cliff, near Dover, can understand why "the white cliffs of Albion" has grown into a stock phrase.

This massive sheet of chalk appears again in France, in many parts of Europe as far east as the Crimea and even in central Asia beyond the sea of Aral. How far it stretched westward into what is now the Atlantic may never be known, but chalk cliffs of at least 200 feet in thickness are seen at Antrim, in Ireland, and less conspicuous formations are found in Scotland, in Argyll and Aberdeen. There can be little question that all these now isolated patches were once connected in a continuous sheet, which must therefore have occupied a superficial area about 3,000 miles long by nearly 1,000 broad, an extent larger than that of the present continent of Europe.

TAWNEY'S TORTURED FEET.

The Minnesota Representative's Early Recollections of Christmas.

"Early Christmas recollections are associated in my mind always," says Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, "with the picture of a great and beautiful church lighted in every part with wax candles—thousands of wax tapers—a supplied choir and the strains of a wonderful organ; this picture against the background of a cold, black morning before sunup, of frozen rutty roads, of a bleak north wind, a breakfast of ginger cookies and a pair of stiff crumpled boots, which made every step of a three mile trudge through the darkness a twinge of exquisite pain.

"I was nine years old. My brother was twelve, and with superior strength and determination he overruled my desire, due to the boots, to turn back for home. The trouble arose from the fact that we had tallowed the boots the night before, and the tallow had hardened. It was necessary to suffer until the warmth of the foot melted the tallow and made the boots less torturous. So we plodded on.

"It was our first Christmas festival. We lived on a farm two miles from Bonneville, in Adams county, Pa., and brother had conceived the idea of going to mass at the Catholic church three miles distant. For this purpose we had risen before 3 o'clock in the morning, had quietly abstracted some cakes from the jar in the cellar, and as I have described, painfully I trudged to the town and the big church.

"It seemed big to the nine-year-old boy, and it seemed gorgeous in its illumination. Wax candles I never had heard of, and so many I never dreamed existed. We edged in with the crowd and stood at the rear of the church, and my boy eyes drank in a scene which never has been nor probably will be forgotten. It was wonderful, spectacular, dramatic to me, and that picture punctuates the vista of past Christmas days like a striking work of art in a gallery of vaguely remembered pictures."—Pittsburg Press.

Thackeray's Apology.

Thackeray once wrote in a note to a friend, alluding to an incident occasioned by one of his articles in Punch: "I thought over the confounded matter in the railroad and wrote instantly on arriving here a letter of contrition and apology to Henry Taylor for having made what I see now was a flippant and offensive allusion to Mrs. Taylor. I am glad I have done it. I am glad that so many people whom I have been thinking bigoted and unfair and unjust toward me have been right and that I have been wrong, and my mind is an immense deal easier."

MRS. ADDIE HARDING, 810 Court street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a user of Peruna for the last twelve years and can truthfully say that there is no better medicine on earth."

"With me it is a sure preventive for colds and many other ills. In my home can always be found a bottle of Peruna. Two or three times a year I am troubled with my throat."

"I always had to have the services of my physician two or three times in each case."

"Although a user of Peruna, I never thought of taking it for my throat until about two years ago."

"I tried Peruna to check it, and to my great delight I was not troubled with the smothered and choked feeling and never have since."

"I can check it every time with Peruna."

"I certainly would not be without Peruna one minute."

The fight against consumption is becoming a national problem.

Everywhere we hear of sanitariums established at the expense of the state for the treatment of the vast army of consumptives.

The open air treatment, fresh air and sunlight, are recognized by the medical profession generally as being the greatest necessities in the treatment of consumption in all of its stages.

Dr. Hartman has for many years advocated the fresh air treatment for consumption. At the same time he has recognized Peruna as a useful palliative for the many distressing symptoms which accompany the white plague.

MRS. MARY MEYER, Thomson avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L. Y., N. Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years."

"Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption."

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna and now I am perfectly free from a cough."

"I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely. I take Peruna occasionally when I do not feel well and I also give it to my children."

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

Peruna tends to lessen the cough, decreases the expectoration, strengthens the patient, increases the appetite and in many cases procures sound, refreshing sleep.

But the value of Peruna in the treatment of a case of consumption is not so great as it is in the prevention of consumption.

Since it is well known that consumption begins with a common cold or catarrh, any medicine that can be relied upon to relieve these must be regarded as a preventive of consumption.

Thousands of cases of incipient consumption, or chronic coughs, or settled colds, have reported Peruna as being a safe and reliable remedy for these ailments.

MRS. FRANCES WILSON, 32 Nelson street, Clinton, Mass., writes:

"Had you seen me at the time of my illness and now, you would not wonder that I take delight in sounding the praises of Peruna."

"My ailment was a severe cold which attacked the bronchial tubes and lungs. I followed your special directions and after using six bottles of Peruna I was on my feet again."

"I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."

The promptness with which Peruna relieves a fresh cold, and even removes chronic colds, that have become thoroughly established, is well known throughout the entire country. This ranks Peruna as a reliable prophylactic against consumption.

Mr. Wm. Swain, 4245 Stiles street, W. Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

"Before I commenced taking Peruna I had used almost everything I could think of for catarrh."

"I felt so tired when getting up in the morning and my lungs felt dry and sore. No one who has not experienced it can imagine how I suffered."

"I tried nearly everything recommended, but nothing did me any permanent good."

"The first bottle of Peruna did me so much good that I continued taking it until completely cured."

"I cannot praise Peruna high enough. I wish every one could know of it."

Those suffering from colds can do nothing better than to procure a bottle of Peruna and give it a fair trial.

Jolly Sleight Party.

On Friday evening the jolliest crowd of the season left Bellefonte in a large sled drawn by four spirited horses for Julian. When they passed through the town about 8 o'clock everyone was attracted by the jolly good time they were all having. Their destination was the cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bullock at the above mentioned place. The evening was spent in playing games, singing and dancing and when the time came to start for home it was raining, they were compelled to remain the balance of the night and instead of coming back in a sled they used the Pennsylvania Railroad and reached Bellefonte about 9:30 this morning.

Presented Handsome Charm.

Sunday evening in the presence of nearly 100 members of the fraternity, in the Elks' rooms, John Tonner Harris, who has been promoted to the assistant district manager of the Pennsylvania Telephone company, was presented with a beautiful Elks' emblem on behalf of the members of the order. Mr. Harris is held in high esteem in Elksdom, and the memento was in recognition of the pleasant relationship that exists.

The presentation was made by Thomas H. Greedy, E. q., in a speech that assured Mr. Harris that while he was severing relations with Altoona lodge, he would always be with them in memory.

The emblem is in the shape of a fob charm, the base of which is a genuine Elk tooth. Surmounting the tooth is a shield, on which is the emblem of the fraternity, an elk head. On the reverse side is another emblematic symbol of Elksdom, the clock face, and the initials "B. P. O. E." worked in gold. The jewel is beautiful and of great value, and Mr. Harris prizes it highly.

He Must Light the Fire.

The will of the late William Crawford, of Mount Pleasant, placed on file in Pittsburgh is a peculiar document.

In it the chief aim of the decedent is the care and comfort of his old wife. In addition to will her $3000, he directs that his sons shall allow her the use of the homestead. "The use of a good, quiet horse, half of the orchard, plenty of wood, to be cut every day, all the coal she may need and the choice of the cows."

He also directs that one of his sons shall light the fire every morning, and continues: "I will also that she be furnished annually with fifteen pounds of wool, three hundred weight of pork, fifty pounds of coffee, eight pounds of tea, ten hundred weight of flour, one barrel of salt, thirty bushels of corn and fifteen bushels of potatoes."

The Spirit of Winter.

The Spirit of Winter is with us, making its presence known in many different ways—sometimes by cheery sunshine and glistening snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse, for rheumatism twists harder, twinges sharper, catarrh becomes more annoying, and the many symptoms of scrofula are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these ailments. The medicine that cures them—Hood's Sarsaparilla—is easily obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

Putting food into a diseased stomach is like putting money into a pocket with holes. The money is lost. All its value goes for nothing. When the stomach is diseased, with the allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the food which is put into it is largely lost. The nutriment is not extracted from it. The body is weak and the blood impoverished.

The pocket can be mended. The stomach can be cured. That sterling medicine for the stomach and blood, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, acts with peculiar promptness and power on the organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a positive cure for almost all disorders of these organs, and cures also such diseases of the heart, blood, liver and other organs, as have their cause in a weak or diseased condition of the stomach.

Elks Will Have a Home in Bellefonte.

ATROCIOUS CRIME BY MASKED ROBBERS.

Inhuman Torture of Man and Wife to Make Them Give up Money.

A most brutal and atrocious crime occurred on Wednesday evening in Rynevill, a settlement in Columbia county, a short distance from Mt. Carmel. Shortly after six o'clock, six masked men entered the house of Stephen Chester, a mine employee, while he and his wife were eating supper. Without any preliminary talk the masked men blantly stated the nature of their visit, demanding the money, which, they said they were sure he had in his possession. Chester replied that all the money he had was twenty cents, which he promptly turned over. "You lie!" shouted one of the robbers and with an oath he "rapped with the unarmed engineer. Two of the robbers held Mrs. Chester, while the others turned their attention to her struggling husband. The four brutes carried him to a chair, seated him upon it and with a stout rope bound him securely. They then secured the poker, placed it in the stove and when it had attained a white heat they tore the clothing from Chester's lower limbs and plunged the iron into his flesh, terribly searing it. The pain suffered by the man was terrible, but when the robbers asked him to divulge the hiding place of his money he had but one reply to make, "I haven't any." The cruel brutes did not desist in applying the torture to the man until he fainted from the intensity of the pain. They then left him and endeavored to secure the information from his wife. Failing to make her tell, the robbers tied her to a chair, pulled off her shoes and burned the soles of her feet until she, too sank into unconsciousness. A search of the house followed, but the brutes could not locate the money and, leaving their victims, insensible, they left the premises. Shortly after the departure of the robbers, Chester regained consciousness, freed himself and spread the alarm. The news of the outrage soon reached Deputy Sheriff Condon Langdon and he set out with a posse of men in an effort to apprehend the brutes. But the robbers had made good their escape, leaving no clue to their identity. Chester declares that the men were strangers to him. Until a few days ago Mr. Chester had a sum of money amounting to several hundred dollars in his home. This, however, he sent to relatives in Europe.

Explosion at the Furnace.

On Sunday morning about 6:30 an explosion occurred at the Nittany furnace that was distinctly felt all through Bellefonte. The train crew had taken two kettles of cinder out to be emptied and after the one had been dumped they noticed a peculiar noise coming from the other and ran away just in time as the big tank filled with red hot cinder exploded and threw the iron in all directions. The kettle was completely destroyed, fortunately no one was hurt with the exception of one or two who were burned a little. Parts of the iron kettle was thrown a distance of 100 yards.

2,000 TOURISTS WERE UNINJURED

St. Thomas, D. W. I., January 16th.—Reports received from Jamaica say it is estimated that 1,000 persons have been killed by the earthquake and fire, and that 90,000 people are homeless. The damage to Kingston alone is placed at $10,000,000.

WORSER THAN FIRST REPORTED.

Washington, January 17.—Very few messages, and these meagre and lacking in detail have been received direct from Jamaica to give additional information of the devastation and death wrought by the earthquake that ravaged Kingston on Monday afternoon. Such intelligence as has come through, however, shows the situation to be apparently more serious than was outlined in the first official reports received at the Colonial office in London, from the Governor of the West Indian Islands, Sir Alexander Swettenham and Hamar Greenwood, P. M.

COMMUNICATION IS DIFFICULT

Cable communication with Jamaica seems to be almost impossible either on account of the local disruption of the lines, and systems, or possibly because of the absolute precedence given in British colonies to official despatches.

The devastation would appear to have been confirmed to the vicinity of Kingston, one despatch giving ten miles as the radius of damage. The rest of the island, including Port Antonio, does not seem to have suffered severely. The estimates of dead range from 100 to 400 but with the exception of Sir James Ferguson and perhaps a dozen other white men, there is no mention of fatalities to foreigners.

Pretty Wedding at the College.

Miss Emma L. Ishler, of State College, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert A. Kerstetter, of Altoona, at the bride's home Thursday at 12 o'clock.

The parlor where the ceremony was performed was beautifully decorated with potted plants and laurel branches. The bridesmaid was Miss Mahle Ishler a sister of the bride and the best man was Mr. Roy Gentzell. The wedding march was played by Miss Mahle Garbrick. Rev. Irvin Stonecipher of the Lutheran church said the words that made this happy young couple man and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Kerstetter passed through Bellefonte this afternoon on their wedding tour, after which they will reside in Altoona where Mr. Kerstetter has a home already furnished for his bride.

May joy and happiness always abide with them.

The Spirit of Winter.

The Spirit of Winter is with us, making its presence known in many different ways—sometimes by cheery sunshine and gleaming snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse, for rheumatism twists harder, twinges sharper, catarrh becomes more annoying, and the many symptoms of scrofula are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these ailments. The medicine that cures them—Hood's Sarsaparilla—is easily obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

Griffith-Evey.

The interior of the home was beautifully decorated for this merry event. Promptly at 5 o'clock Rev. Chilcoat took his place at the altar and pronounced the words that bound for life this happy young couple.

Mrs. Griffith is a very bright and accomplished young lady and will make a fitting helpmate through life.

Mr. Griffith is a partner with his father in the grocery business at Pleasant Gap and is also employed at the fish hatchery. The young couple passed through Bellefonte, Friday on a wedding tour East.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result; and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Deception of Wild Birds.

Falcons—hawks, the largest species—can compress their features and look very thin if they think it necessary to do so. As to the owls, they can hump into any position they think most suitable. It is useless to look for these self preserving traits in any of the family kept in zoological collections, for the birds are so accustomed to see large numbers of people passing and re-passing or standing in front of them that they treat the whole matter with perfect indifference. They know that at a certain time their food will be brought to them and that they are otherwise perfectly safe. The raptures in a wild state have a bloom on their plumage, like the bloom on a bunch of grapes, which is not so often seen when in captivity.

A Train For Tyler.

During Mr. Tyler's incumbency of the presidential office he arranged to make an excursion in some direction and sent his son Bob to arrange for a special train. It happened that the railroad superintendent was a strong Whig. As such he had no favors to bestow on the president and informed Bob that his road did not run any special trains for the president. "What!" said Bob. "Did you not furnish a special train for the funeral of President Harrison?" "Yes," said the superintendent, "and if you'll bring your father in that condition you shall have the best train on the road."

A Problem In Life.

They had met in the subway and in the interval of passing a few stations had fallen to talking of a lovely woman friend who had died. "How did she die? Do you know?" he asked. "She nursed a little niece through an infectious disease, then took it herself and died of it," said she. "A strange Providence!" he mused sadly. "She, lovely, gracious, charming, everything to live for and a blessing to her friends, to die in order that a child might live. A strange and unaccountable Providence!"—New York Press.

Good and Osgood.

The subject of ancestors is often an interesting topic of conversation. A lady extremely proud of her mother's family created a sensation and made her listeners wonder a little when she remarked: "My father filled many responsible positions. We all have the greatest respect for him. My father was a good man, but—and a certain stiffening of the shoulders and an added expression of firmness in the good lady's face added importance to her conclusion—"my mother was an Osgood!"

Man to Blame.

Women are more prone to deceit than men. From the time when Scheherazade told her lord 1,001 lies to keep the peace it has been the accepted way. And the men, not the women, are the most to blame. It is what they like, and they get it.—Good Words.

Love is intoxicating, it is said. What a good thing it is that marriage has a tendency to sober a man.—Terror! (Tex.) Transcript.

Lifting a Kettle of Hot Water.

Some time when the teakettle is bubbling and boiling on the kitchen range lift it quickly by its handle and set it on the open palm of your other hand. This sounds like a very foolhardy thing to do—as if your hand might be blistered in a twinkling—but you will find that you can hold the teakettle which has just come from a roaring fire for some time without hurting you. Try it and then see if you can tell the reason why you are not burned. Be sure, however, that the water is boiling strongly before you make the experiment.

A Kippered Pastor.

A French Protestant pastor was the guest of a Scottish preacher at a manse. One morning kippered herrings were served at breakfast. The French pastor asked the meaning of "kipper." His host replied that it meant "to preserve." On taking his leave next day the French pastor, wringing his host's hand, said, "May the Lord kipper you, my good friend."
